Hope everyone had a wonderful holiday. With the New Year brings new adventures for the Pierce County Mustang Club. The calendar is full of fun and exciting events. Don't forget, we meet on the second Tuesday of the month for Car Show Planning (check web site for time and location) and the third Tuesday is our General Club meeting at Korum Ford. We also have a "Friday Night Dinner Out" planned for the Friday after the General Meeting each month. Check the web site and/or Facebook for dates and times for all of our fun and exciting events.

We would like to give a huge shout-out to our friends at Korum Ford who committed to continuing their support of the club with another $2500 donation. This helps with our show and events. Pictured are Susan Fleury, John Hall, and Jeff Beaty from Korum.

Thank you to all.

Looking forward to seeing everyone out and about.

Greg Robbins
PCMC President

Trivia Question:

Q—Between 1987 and 1993 the Mustang name was almost sold. Who would have gotten it and for what purpose? (by the way, a couple of execs saved the day with a lot of help from the roar of Mustang fans)

Charity Involvement (continued)

What a great way to spend the morning, handing out $1000 checks to 4 different charities.

Each of these groups does great deeds for the communities that they serve. It is wonderful that our community of Mustangers have been able to contribute to their work.

We also thank all who participate in our annual car show and those that help to sponsor it. This is what creates the ability for us to support each of these groups.

Thank you!

PCMC General Meeting Minutes—December

No meeting in December.

Cruise Etiquette

Our first cruise is coming on the 14th of January. It is always a good idea to review the rules of etiquette for our travels. We want to be sure we are safe and all members enjoy the event and want to do more. We also want the communities we travel through to be safe, find fun in having us pass through, and would welcome us back. So here you go.

Driving in a convoy is a fun way to travel amongst your fellow car enthusiasts as it shows the power and strength of your group, gives a larger presence to your ventures, and gets attention going down the road. Having a good time and pulling off a successful and safe drive involves common sense behavior and driving etiquette that is kind to both your fellow travelers and the other people on the road.

1. Headlights on: This is how the rest of the world knows what is going on. It's also protocol and law in some states. Your lights on enables you to see your brethren and know who is with you. If someone pulls off the road in trouble, they are easier to identify in the rear view mirror. Best of all, it looks cool.
2. Don't follow too close: When in a convoy, keeping good distances is a must for safety as well as an act of kindness to the car you are following. Your cars are special and worth a lot of money so don't risk them. Utilize the 4-5 second rule of following as a basis.
3. Allow other traffic to intermingle: Instinctively, people in a convoy don't want to allow other cars to merge into the line. You must allow other drivers to move in and out of your convoy. Other drivers usually are intimidated or in awe of the spectacle and need to be given extra consideration. Be patient in letting them find their place and pass them if necessary if they settle in a bad spot. You can actually be ticketed in some states for not allowing the free flow of traffic through your group. You want other drivers to say, "Wow, that was neat." Be a friendly convoy.

4. Lead car should keep speed reasonable: This is hard. It is all too easy to let the speed creep up. When you have a diverse group of cars or participants, there will be people who think it's too slow and others who say you are going too fast. Try to stay with the flow of the other traffic. This reduces the need for constant lane changes and passing, making the drive safer for the group. Also, be sure to allow for flexibility if a few people want to stop. If your convoy is 20 cars or more, this may be difficult. The catch up time required for a 10 minute stop is one hour at 10mph faster than the group is traveling. People can get discouraged or upset at losing the group. If the pack is already moving significantly faster than traffic or the speed limit, it only compounds the issue.
5. Walkie Talkie Protocol: Talking on the WT in a convoy is half the fun. You must however respect the requests of the convoy leader when they ask the group to temporarily stop chatter for logistical reasons. Often as the group is departing or arriving at a location, the air must be open for leaders to relay important messages, directions, reports, or warnings. Only one person can talk at a time on a WT channel. To ensure no one is left behind Lead Car, Middle Car and Last Car shall all have walkie talkies.

Choose a channel for your convoy that is clear of other radio traffic. Odd channels like 3 or 4 work well in most parts of the US. Lastly, keep the language "G" rated. It is the law, although there really aren't any radio police anymore, it is a courtesy.

6. Lend a hand: Out on the open road you need to depend on one another. This is supposed to be fun. If a fellow traveler is having a car problem—help them. Nobody wants to be left behind, especially in a group setting such as a convoy. Your act of kindness could be the cement that builds a life long friendship as well as giving a story to tell.
7. Have your car in order: Tied to the last item, be sure your car is up to the drive. Get the car checked out. People may take heroic action to rescue you should you have trouble.
8. No horseplay: Drive like an adult. Goofing off or speeding to show off is bad for the whole group. That wipeout can take out a couple of your friends cars and injure or kill them. Your speeding could attract unwanted attention from the law that can sour a whole convoy outing. After all, convoys can be ticketed as a group in some circumstances if the officer is mad enough with you.

9. Take it easy: Sometimes not everything goes as planned. Participants in a convoy usually have pretty high expectations and are loaded with anticipation of the day's events. It is important to stay focused on the trip at hand and be able to relax when things get hectic, people get lost, or traffic snarls throw you off schedule.

10. Be respectful of the Leadership Team: If you as a participant have suggestions or issues with the way things are going with the event, it is important for you to share this directly with whom-ever is in charge. Do this in a respectful manner, preferably in private. To broadcast in a group setting can be divisive and could disrupt the good aura of the event. In most cases, events leaders want to hear your concerns and will take action to resolve them if you are sincere.

Mustang of the Month

Kim and Robert Bailey

It all started out as a normal weekend. Lindy was sleeping over at aunties and we were at Azteca for lunch when the topic of Mustangs came up. Kimberly suggested we go look at them after lunch. Well I know how she "looks" at cars. I agreed and a short time later we were greeted by Richard Montes at Korum Ford.

We found a gorgeous black 2015 Premium Edition with every option available except one and it wasn't a huge issue. We took it for a test drive, once I figured out how to get it into reverse. Let's just say that ride sold us almost immediately. The sensation of taking off is exhilarating to say the least. And it handled and braked like you would expect from a well built Ford Mustang. Once we returned from our joyous test drive we sat down and discussed our options. My Ford F-150 was on the table for trades and they made us an excellent deal. Thinking we could do better, I left without it. The next few days we spent searching local dealerships only to be met with irritation and disappointment. The following Saturday we returned to Korum and found that the Mustang had been sold but they had another one almost identical but with the 20" Foundry rims. After an exhausting paperwork issue we walked away with a new Mustang on Sunday and have been extremely pleased ever since.

We have owned several Mustangs and this is by far the nicest one yet. Shortly after bringing it home we started to look at Mustang Clubs and I rejoined PCMC after a long absence. It had been over 10 years since I was a member and figured time to rekindle the flame. We have enjoyed it ever since.

The Stang stayed stock for a while but at Christmas Kimmy bought the first mod... a Foosse shift knob. I found a Roush racing wing for the rear that was self installed. Let me tell ya, drilling holes into the sheet metal of your nearly brand new Mustang is tough!!! From there we took it to Martin Way Collision where the flat black single stripe along with the red edge stripes were installed. The next weekend was the Daffodil Parade and we were behind a certain Black Shelby with Red stripes and next to a Blue Mustang II both with crazy awesome exhausts. Feeling the pressure we scoured the internet looking for a suitable exhaust and found it in an off-road 3" MBRP cat back. For additional looks we had the windows tinted as well.

We love the look and the sound of it now. It gets thumbs up and nods wherever we go. Lindy loves driving in it also. She loves tunnels and underpasses and tells daddy to PUNCH IT!!! Future plans involve a supercharger possibly. Then traction, then brakes, then headers, then more traction, cams then..... Well does it ever really end?

Robert Bailey

Informational Article:

Things Not To Do When Detailing Your Car

Here we are in January ready to start a new year of cruises, shows, and club events. That of course means that at some point in the not so distant future we will each be out doing the wash, polish, wax, vacuum, and all that goes with getting the car ready for all those events.

1. We know there is something about going out on a warm day in shorts or a bathing suit and washing the car. Although this might have attracted some positive attention when we were younger (or maybe it didn't) but it is not a good idea. One source suggests that if you must, at least "keep the surface cool with a regular spray of water."
2. So I am drying the car and I find all those spots that I seemed to miss no matter how carefully I washed. Just wipe them off with the drying towel, right? NO! It just grinds in the dirt.
3. How many old towels did I use from Mom to dry the car? Sometimes I even created old ones, much to my Mother's dismay, just so I would have a drying towel. Those cotton towels are part of what puts the swirls in the paint. Microfiber is the way to go. Sorry Mom!
4. Drying with a chamois or with a squeegee? I know lots of people use both of these but one problem is that each can pick up that pesky dirt that you left on in #2 and spread it across your paint.
5. Pouring waxes and polishes directly on the car surface leaves dark spots on the surface. It is best to put them on the sponge and apply them from there.
6. Avoid solvent-based tire and rubber cleaners and protectants that damage the tires and wheels.
7. Do you clean the wheels and tires first or last. Some say last, because you clean from the top down. Others say first so that dirt from the wheels and tires doesn't splash up onto the clean car when cleaning them.

8. Dish soap on the car works well to take off grease and wax. So use the Palmolive on the dishes and the car wash on the car.
9. Ammonia-based glass cleaner is damaging to upholstery and dashboards if dripped on them.
10. Cleaning only spots on the upholstery often leaves really clean spots while highlighting the dinginess of the rest of the upholstery. Clean the whole surface.
11. Not all plastics are the same. Treat each (softer and harder plastics) with the appropriate cleaner for that type.
12. Don't over wax. Anything beyond 2 coats will probably just buff off because it won't stick. And while we are at it, another reason for those swirls in your paint is the "wax on, wax off" in circles that we saw in the movies. Rub in one direction (vertically) and then the other (horizontally) to cover all surfaces whether polishing or waxing.

Santa Parades

Dec 3

We managed to get away with not too chilly and only a little bit of sprinkles for this year's Sumner and Puyallup Santa Parade. We were 6 cars strong this year with Jim & Landon Live-ly heading up our herd followed by Paul & Heidi Geise, Missy & Dennis Willert, Kim, Robert, Lindy & cousin Bailey, Pam Pistella & Wayne 2 and Chuck Botsford bringing up the rear. Along the way we saw a few club members in the crowds. We had a great time spreading good cheer with our lit up rides that the crowds enjoyed having us "lite" up on the routes. Afterwards we all braved the traffic and had a delicious dinner.

This is a fun way to bring in the Christmas season each year. Hopefully we can get a few more of you to join us next year.

By Missy Willert

PCMC Holiday Dinner and Party

A fantastic gathering of club members in Puyallup for our annual Holiday Dinner and Party. The room was filled to the brim with great food and beverages from our members and Mustang enthusiasts of all ages. (Granted some didn't know they were enthusiasts yet but they will be.)

The evening began with conversation and a slide show with music reviewing all of the fun events of the year. I will just say that some of our members are quite the dancers....

The young kids gathered in the front hall to do art projects, enjoy the tree, watch a holiday movie and await their gifts in quiet anticipation. Who am I kidding? What kid waits quietly for their gifts? They were excitedly running off the energy that they have and the rest of us wish we had. These were the real dancers.

Eventually we all meandered to the food tables packed with salads and sides and ham (thank you Nancy) and turkey (thank you Charlene) and a great cake. It was all delicious and I say that honestly as I tried everything. It was research for this article, honest.

After we all stuffed ourselves we had to exercise. Yes, you heard me correctly. Vickey was in charge of the gift exchange and boy did she make every-one work for it. Right and Right and Associates (a law firm) were contacted because of a law suit and there was no evidence left unexamined as the investigation was thoroughly completed. If you weren't there here is the gist of things.

- Everyone picked a gift
- All stood in a circle around the room
- When the word "right" came up the gifts went to the right and when the word "left" came up the gifts went to the left

We quickly discovered who did well in kindergarten and who didn't. "No Paul, that was Right and Right and Associates which is 2 moves to the right." At the end, the gift you were holding was opened and there was 5 minutes to exchange. What a fun way to exchange gifts and prepare for the dessert table.

Thank you for all who helped to put this on including the Zimbelmans who built a Mustang license plate ring for all to be photographed in.

And don't forget the $1058 in cash and about $400 in toys for Santa's Castle. Very nice. Monica was pleased she won over $300 from the 50/50.

See the next page and photobucket for pictures from the night.

All seemed to be in the holiday spirit, or was that getting holiday spirits, as friends old and new met for dinner on this chilly December night.

share the adventures of the season.

It always amazes me that as often as we all get together there is always something new to learn about our fellow Mustangers. Great group...great times!

See you at the next FNDO at Elmer's.

Now that we aren't getting parking tickets when we go to the Spaghetti Factory, this is a fun place to eat and hang out together. Great food, friendly waitstaff and a wonderful opportunity to
